Describe their project management. Did they deliver items on time? How did they respond to your needs?

A person was assigned to the project who kicked-off the services via a virtual meeting. The PM created a slack channel to communicate status and findings quickly and efficiently. They quickly communicated findings during the process and recommended action to address any issues. This was a huge value-add to me as it allowed for immediate remediation of a finding during the process and proper notation in the final report.

Yes, everything was delivered on-time. A final report was issued upon completion of the project, however, they communicated everything so clearly during the process we were fully aware of what would be presented in the report.

Really well done here.
